THE STONE WALL OF DEATH —The following thrilling incident of the unsuccessful charge at Fredericksburg is from the pen of a correspondent of the Missouri Republican:

Parts of Sumner's grand corps charged three times up the declivity in front of the enemy's works and were as often repulsed with dreadful slaughter. Amid the groans of the dying, the shrieks of the wounded, and the defiant cries of the retreating column, which fell back cheering, "Hurrah for General McClellan!" could be heard above the roar of battle—sometimes from our defeated soldiers, sometimes from the wounded, and often from the dying soldiers The fiercest fighting in the center raged in front of a stone wall upon the first crest of hills, in advance of the batteries of the enemy The rebel infantry were sheltered behind it, while their artillery played over their heads Immediately in its front was a line of rifle-pits, occupied by a small force of the enemy. The order was given to charge this position, and our troops advanced up the slope, when they were greeted with heavy cannonading. Approaching nearer, they received the fire of the rebel sharpshooters in rifle pits, but, undaunted they continued to advance, driving the rebels from the rifle-pits, who disappeared behind the stone wall and in the woods beyond. The advance continued, shot and shell, with desultory musketry, tore through the ranks, but there was no faltering The gaps were closed up, and the long line of bayonets approached within one hundred yards of the wall The prospects of its being captured looked promising It once taken would afford our troops protection in turn, and give good positions for our field batteries As yet the enemy's infantry had not shown themselves. Occasionally a refugee from the rifle-pits would arise and fire, and then scamper off to the rear, but no heavy musketry told that the enemy were behind it in force Within fifty yards was reached. The pace increased to a rush and the line braced itself for the last encounter Suddenly a brigade of grey coats arose from behind the wall, a long line of bright rifles flashed in the sunlight, then came a gleaming flash and deafening roar The advancing columns received the leaden hail, fell like grass before the scythe, wavered, reeled, turned and fled Two thousand five hundred dead and dying were left under the guns of the enemy, and five hundred fell before the shelter of a ravine was gained. That wall was about six hundred yards in length, and every foot of it cost us two men. It was the battle of New Orleans repeated.

ANTIQUE SLANG.—The New York Tribune thus explains the origin of the term "bully":

It is not generally known that the phrases "Bully Boy," "Bully for You," so commonly used in the street, are not of modern coinage, but have a classic origin. As a stimulus to martial exploits, the Romans honored a victorious General when he entered the city with a triumph He was placed in a chariot drawn by four horses, preceded by his captives and spoils, and followed by his army, and thus escorted he passed along the Via Sacra, and ascending to the capitol, sacrificed a bull to Jupiter An inferior triumph was called an ovation, from the practice of sacrificing a sheep instead of a bull. In the case of an ovation, the victor entered the city on foot attended by a small retinue and a band of flute players It is common in our army for the soldiers to manifest their appreciation of a gallant officer or soldier by exclaiming "Bully for him!" (a bull for him,) but no man who wears an epaulette would consider it a compliment were his soldiers to shout "a sheep for him" And yet we give "ovations" to our conquering heroes In the tale of Ivanhoe, Sir Walter Scott puts the following words in the mouth of Friar Tuck when he entertained the Black Knight

Come trowl the brown bowl to me,
Bully boy bully boy—
Come trowl the brown bowl to me,
Ho Jolly Jenkin I spy a knave in drinking
Come trowl the brown bowl to me,
Bully boy bully boy

TAHITI —The Bulletin of the 21st says: Few suspect the extent of our fast increasing trade with the Society Islands The exports to those Islands now consist mostly of California and Oregon products, and give considerable employment to quite a fleet of barks, brigs and schooners belonging to this port. Their outward cargoes consist largely of lumber, flour grain, potatoes, salmon, shipbread, etc Their return freight is principally oranges During the last year sixteen cargoes of oranges and cocoanuts arrived here from the Society Islands, and the coming season bids fair to rival the past year The first fruit vessel usually arrives here early in March from which time until July the fruit finds a ready market at remunerative prices. The following are the names of the vessels which intend returning here with fruit the coming season The barks Hartford and Sultan the brigs Swerc, Martha Worthington and Ruth, and the schooners Olivia, Fayaway, Matthew Vassar and Wild Pigeon. Aside from these a number of other vessels, of various countries, are expected here, which will probably make the number equal to those which arrived last season Tahiti is considered by experienced travelers as the garden of the Pacific and scientific men who have accompanied various exploring expeditions which have touched there say that the climate is extremely healthy—preferable even to that of Madeira

CORWIN AND INTERVENTION —The House Committee of Foreign Affairs is about to investigate the newspaper charges against Corwin—that he has been interfering in Mexican affairs in favor of the French In these times when France seems so much inclined to intermeddle in our own affairs, it is considered important that our agents abroad should [illegible] the same sort of impertinence—[illegible] it is feared has committed a blunder—unless it be the policy of the State Department [illegible] Napoleon in everything

The [illegible] that the Banks expedition has gone into the Gulf of Mexico for the purpose of watching the military operations of France in Mexico gave much satisfaction [illegible] The fact that an isolated expedition prepared to attack some seaport town belonging to the rebels was not approved [illegible] known that the expedition was urged by Seward and one of the objects he had in view [illegible] was to have a force ready [illegible] French troops in case of necessity [illegible] A little more pluck in our foreign diplomacy would suit the people —Washington Correspondence New York Evening Post Dec 25th.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEB 4, 1863

Oregon City Woolen Manufacturing Company.—The following named gentlemen have formed a corporation, with a view of establishing a woolen manufactory at Oregon City.—A. L. Lovejoy, Thos Charman, L D C. Latourette, Arthur Warner, W W Buck, Wm Whitlock, F Barclay, Daniel Harvey, Geo. H Atkinson, J L Barlow, John D Dement, W. C Dement, D P Thompson, Wm. Barlow, W C. Johnson, and A H Steele. Articles of incorporation were signed on the 27th and filed in the office of the Secretary of State on the 31st of December, 1862. The capital stock of the company is $60,000, of which, about one half was subscribed within three days after the books were opened. When the full sum of the capital stock is subscribed, the work will be commenced. To this end the company has bought five lots, fronting one hundred and fifty feet on Main street, in Oregon City running to the river, conditional on raising the full amount of stock. The purchase was made of Mr. Daniel Harvey at $12,000, and he guarantees to the company the use of water enough to drive all the woolen manufacturing machinery which may ever be placed on the land sold. The site of the works will be at the upper steamboat landing, which is now disused as a landing. It is proposed that the building shall be stone and brick, fifty by one hundred feet and four stories high. There will be, in addition, frame buildings for the dry-house, wash-house, dye-house, &c. The power granted by Mr. Harvey has such immense prospective advantages, that we cannot doubt that the $30,000 additional can be easily raised, to set the enterprise in motion at once. The manufacture of woolen goods is yet in its infancy on the Coast, but enough has been done at it to demonstrate with certainty that it can be made the source of immense profits. The success of the Salem works is placed beyond a doubt, and the Linn county woolen [illegible] will start under the most favorable [illegible]; but we do not consider that either of them have any advantage which the Oregon City company does not possess, while the latter has some that no other similar enterprise can have. We feel sure that there are many small capitals hoarded away which can find a good investment in this company, and large sums will seek far for a better chance to make money with certainty.

Mining in Jackson County.—The Corvallis Union's Jacksonville correspondence says that, the Curtin quartz lead is paying finely. An offer of $25,000 for one-third of the lead has been refused. On Waldo creek, valuable discoveries of copper-ore have been made, and silver quartz on Althouse creek. The copper ore appears to be largely impregnated with silver. Coal has also been found in considerable quantities, but of inferior quality.

Forgiven.—The editor of the Corvallis Union forgives his enemies for procuring the exclusion of his paper from the U S mails. With all that we find to disapprove in the conduct of that paper, we desire its general circulation; looking upon it as one of the best engines to defeat the policy which it advocates that was ever devised.

Vines in California.—It is estimated that there are twenty millions of grape vines planted in California, which will produce twelve million gallons of wine annually. The culture of the vine is yet in its infancy in that State, and will not reach its maximum for centuries.

Convicted.—A Yreka dispatch, of the 28th of January, says, In the District Court, the trial of L. G. Anderson, indicted for murder closed yesterday. The jury retired about sundown, and at 8 P M, brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree. He will receive his sentence on Saturday, Jan 31st.

Attempt at Arson.—A German shoemaker, named G. W. Shafer, of Waldo, Jackson county, lately attempted to commit arson at that place, and was arrested and is now in jail.

Col. Thomas H Ford, of Harper's Ferry notoriety, wants to be re instated in the army, from which he was dismissed for incompetency. His design is to resign as soon as reappointed, but he wants to white wash his military reputation.

Negroes are declining rapidly in value in Missouri. Good field hands have been sold as low as fifty dollars apiece. A chivalry friend of ours once remarked, when very hard up, "I wish I was somebody's nigger, and I would not have to take care of myself." He would feel very cheap to be sold for fifty dollars.

Richmond papers complain of the amount of crime in their city. This is natural for it is not to be supposed that viper's eggs will bring forth doves.

Dr. Francis Lieber, the eminent writer on military law, Major Generals Hitchcock, Hartsuff and Cadwallader, and Brigadier General Martindale, have been appointed by the Secretary of War a Board to revise the Articles of War, and to prepare new army regulations for the government of our armies in the field.

Letters from Messrs Ladd and Rector

PORTLAND, February [illegible], 1863

Messrs Ladd & Tilton

Gentlemen:—By a misapprehension in the minds of some as to the true state of facts in relation to certain drafts negotiated by me with your house, I am being misrepresented, and placed in very embarrassing circumstances which tend to injure my reputation. I therefore, in justice to myself and the public respectfully ask you to make a full statement of the facts in the case, and also state whether I have received any premium or bonus arising out of the transaction. [illegible] this just request will be granted.

I remain very respectfully,
WM H RECTOR,
Supt Indian Affairs

PORTLAND, February [illegible], 1863

Wm H Rector Esq
Supt Indian Affairs

Dear Sir:—Yours of even date herewith relative to the purchase of certain drafts from you on the United States Assistant Treasurer at San Francisco, is at hand. Your instructions relative thereto with us were as follows:

On the 8th of November last Mr Rector informed us that he had to his credit at San Francisco, as Superintendent of Indian Affairs, about $40,000 and wished us to cash the same. We informed him that we would purchase his drafts, but could not give him the full amount just at that time but would give him all that he required for immediate use and the balance as soon as we should receive it, as we had in transitu from New York a large amount of funds in legal tender notes. Mr Rector replied that the creditors of the department were clamorous for their pay, and he could not wait. We then told him we would send the drafts to San Francisco and charge him freight and insurance on the amount not furnished him here. Mr Rector replied, he could do no better but thought the Government would not allow the charges, viz freight and insurance but would probably allow his travelling expenses, provided he went to San Francisco to receive the balance of it. Whereupon, Mr Rector made sale to us of the drafts, on the terms proposed and we advanced him $10,000 in legal tender notes he promising to forward the drafts to us immediately upon his arrival at Salem. On the 10th of November, we wrote him, requesting that if the drafts had not already been sent forward, to send them at once, as there was a possibility of receiving some coin in payment for them. In compliance Mr Rector sent us a Treasury Warrant for $66,300 and his check for $5,700 on the Assistant Treasurer at San Francisco, amounting to $72,000, for which we paid him $38,000 in legal tender notes and $2,900 in coin at our office in this city, and $31,100 in legal tender notes at San Francisco. This is the whole transaction between Mr Rector and ourselves, and so far as we know, no advantage has accrued to Mr Rector, either directly or indirectly, by reason thereof.

Very respectfully, &c.,
LADD & TILTON

The Dreadful Reality.—A Californian writing from Washington, thus describes the arrival of the wounded and dying from Fredericksburg:

Right upon the heels of the excitement of the battle of Fredericksburg comes the long waves of the wounded, streaming and surging back from the bloody slaughter. The Washington hospitals were not empty before now they are crowded with the hapless maimed and wounded, who constantly arrive in hundreds by every boat from Aquia Creek. Yesterday I met on one of the principal streets a long and grim procession of the slightly wounded, who were coming up on foot from the steamboat landing. Here they come in squads of a hundred or more, wounded in the face, with fingers gone, armless perhaps, with cruel furrows plowed along the arm by grape or musket ball, with faces grimed and blackened with smoke and powder, ragged, dishevelled and drooping with fatigue and weakness: here they come, creeping, shuffling, limping and hobbling along, full fifteen hundred strong, so faint and longing for rest, so weary, oh, so weary, that the heart bleeds at the pitiful sight. Yet they are but a small squad and are able to walk to the Hospital, though slowly, and when they all stop for a rest on the sidewalk and lean wearily upon the iron railings, or sit on the steps of elegant residences, they can answer the questions of the pitiful passers by, and speak kindly of their commanders who led them to the field, and manfully acknowledge that we were beaten because the rebel position was more than equal to Federal bravery.

But a sadder sight is the unloading at the hospital of the long train of ambulances which bring up the more severely wounded from the landing place. Some recline at length on the litters which are placed two and two in each vehicle, and as each ambulance in turn drives up to discharge its fearful freight, there are pitiful faces and moist eyes in the compassionate crowd which offers willing hands to help the wounded, and parts with respectful alacrity before the bearers of the maimed soldiers. Here is a little drummer boy with his right hand gone. The rattle of his drum at the head of a Massachusetts regiment was only stopped by a storm of iron hail which beat down its thousands, and his mother among the Berkshire hills is waiting to know whether he is alive or dead. There comes a line of stretchers with men who have left arms, legs, hands, feet and much blood upon the fatal field of Fredericksburg. Rebel guns have maimed these men for life, and those who went forth full of vigor, hope and ambition, their hearts beating high with visions of glory and prowess, have returned again—broken, decrepid, useless and disfigured by the enginery of war, against which they manfully surged in solid columns again and again. Now and then as a litter is lifted carefully out an attendant lifts the corner of the covering of the pale suffering face and directs the burden to a l ward or [illegible] for the man whom they carry is dead. The passage from the steamer to the hospital is his last, and sisters, mother and maid will weep tomorrow when they see his name in the fatal list of "Since Dead." These legless, armless, maimed and suffering men are such as we, for they all have loving friends somewhere who grieve to hear of their suffering; and there are also others who are lying stark and stiff upon the battle field, or are hastily and indecently buried hard by the spot where their life blood ebbed away. Mothers sent them to the war with blessings and prayers and now they are daily thinking and dreaming of those who to day are swept away into undistinguished and unknown graves. My peace blessed California reader, this is War. God help its victims.

A Burnside Canard.—The romantic story about Gen Burnside being a tailor's apprentice, and receiving his appointment as a West Point cadet from Secretary Caleb Smith, then Member of Congress from Indiana, is said to be a canard made out of whole cloth. Burnside's father was a wealthy and influential man, the son never mended breeches for a living, but assisted his father in the Clerk's office of Union county Indiana and the cadetship was secured through Oliver H Smith then Member of Congress from that District.

Senatorial Contest at Sacramento.—A dispatch to the Oregonian dated the night after the steamer of the 28th of January sailed gives the subjoined account of the progress of the Senatorial struggle at Sacramento:

The Senatorial caucus met to-night. Before they proceeded to ballot Assemblyman Collins rose to a question of privilege concerning an article in the Bee, intimating a charge of bribery and corruption in the Senatorial contest. He asked all who know anything of it to make a clean breast and full exposure of the whole matter. McCullough rose, and in a solemn manner, said, that while Senator Gaskill and himself were concealed in the room of Assemblyman Smith, U S Postal Agent Watrous came in and offered Smith a District or Supreme Judgeship to come over to Phelps. Smith didn't like the contingent fees. Watrous then offered him $1,000. Smith said he understood the sum should be $3,000. Watrous said he would give $1,000 down and $2,000 afterwards with Mr Chenery as security. Gaskill confirmed the statement of McCullough. Cyrus Palmer said E. Wilson had offered him anything he should ask, if he would come over to Phelps and bring six votes. Palmer did not give a definite answer then. Parks said it was a preconcerted plan of Phelps' enemies to defeat him. He knew something against Trenor W. Park, and would throw a bombshell into the caucus when the [illegible] came in. A resolution to investigate the matter was opposed by the Phelps' men on the ground that Phelps was not implicated, and the caucus had no right to take testimony.—Up to half past ten o'clock last night the caucus was still in session.

Price of Gold in 1812.—During the war of 1812 gold was sold at a premium of 30 per cent, so that the present rates are not above the mark of the olden times. In 1812 we had a Democratic administration—genuinely Democratic—and a very able one. Yet the finances and currency of the country were greatly deranged, simply because it does not rest in human power to prevent the disturbing influences of war, and the speculation which war engenders. Democratic politicians, who are making capital out of the present currency derangements are guilty of an unscrupulous meanness that only themselves could be capable of.

The enrollment of citizens of New York and Brooklyn, liable to do military duty, has been completed, and the official figures show a total of 218,774 men, which exceeds the whole number thus far sent to the war from the entire State of New York. The number in New York city is 165,900, and in Brooklyn 52,874.

Great complaint is made by the heads of departments, at Washington, about the outside pressure from Congressmen on the conduct of affairs. Nesmith's plan should be put into effect against them: that is, to turn the bayonets of the soldiers against them, if they come lurking around the offices of the executive officers.

The Daily Oregonian.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

Legal Tender Notes this Day—65 cents.

THE DRUNKS.—John Bennett was fined $5 and costs, yesterday, for being drunk and disorderly on the 2d of February, which he paid. Thomas Taylor had to pay $10 for being drunk and disorderly on the same day. We notice that $15 pays for a great deal of whisky, which the two parties above-named might have had the satisfaction of drinking in peace if they had been drunk in a peaceable manner. The gross amount of whisky and other kinds of drinking has been perfectly awful in the last week. Men who have been but seldom known to drink, have been on sprees, and frequent drinkers have been drunk with singular unanimity.

FORCIBLE ENTRY AND DETAINER.—An interesting case came off before Justice Anderson day before yesterday, relating to the tenure of a portion of the Caruthers' land claim, which lies south of and adjoining the city. The lessee of the land, A L Marshall, brought suit against R J Ladd, A J. Knott and others, for the forcible entry and detainer of that part of Finice Caruthers' lands which he inherited from his mother, a short time before his death. The jury found the defendants guilty as charged in the bill of complaint.

STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.—This Association will assemble this morning at 10 o'clock, at the Public School building The teachers, and all others interested, are invited to be present. All teachers from a distance will be provided places where they will be made welcome, during the continuance of the Association Teachers arriving in this place will please call upon O S Frambes, on Taylor street, between Second and Third streets.

COMMUNICATIONS.—The letters from Messrs Ladd and Rector contain their version of the transactions of which so much has been said in this paper. There is a single point which needs further elucidation, and we are promised the proofs on it, if they are in existence. The production of these will show that Mr. Rector did not make any money out of the transaction, but that the profits accrued solely to Messrs. Ladd & Tilton.

MINT FOR PORTLAND.—On the 17th of December, Senator Nesmith introduced a bill in the United States Senate, to establish a branch of the U. S. Mint in this city. We estimate for the ensuing year that a branch mint would effect a saving of two and a half per cent. on near $10,000,000, for near $250,000, all of which would turn to the advantage of producers and owners of bullion. This saving would be exclusive of the interest on bullion going and coming from San Francisco.

Portland R. A. Chapter, No. 3.—There will be a stated convocation of Portland Chapter, No. 3, on Thursday evening, Feb. 5th., at 7 o'clock.

Members and sojourning companions are requested to attend punctually.

A Card.

It will be remembored that, on the opening of their ten-pin alleys, the Kelly Brothers offered a silver cup to the person who should roll the largest game of ten-pins before the 1st of January, 1863. The undersigned having made the best game in the time specified, was declared the winner, and the cup was presented according to agreement. The Kelly Brothers then gave public notice that they would give $50 in money to the first person who succeeded in making "three hundred" at any time during the month of January, 1863. Having won the first prize, I resolved to try to win the next, and to that end I rolled more or less every day, thereby spending considerable money in the house. Finally, on the 30th of January, I accomplished the feat of making three hundred in one game. Every one in the room declared me the winner of the prize; but, on demanding it, the Messrs. Kellys refused to give it up, on the plea that "the 'pin setter' must have 'bunched' the pins." The "pin-setter's" name is W. A. Billey, and no one who knows him will believe that he is capable of testifying to a falsehood, and he declares that he would make affidavit that he set the pins fair on the spots, without any exception, during the whole game. I can also bring reliable persons, who were present, to bear witness that the game in question was rolled fairly in every respect. These statements I made to the Kelleys, and, further, offered that if I did not produce good proof that I was entitled to the prize of $50, I would relinquish all claim to it; but they were determined to not be convinced, and I have therefore taken this method of showing the public how meanly some men will act to save fifty dollars.

G D. AGAR

Portland, Feb 4th 1863.

A fashionable outfit of good material has done more to advance the fortunes of many a prominent citizen than some people imagine. A man may as well be really awkard as to have ill fitting garments, for the result is the same. Heuston, Hastings & Co, of Lick House, San Francisco, are just the men to fit you out to your own satisfaction, and the delight of your friends also.

Coughs.—The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges let the Cold Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. PUBLIC SPEAKERS and SINGERS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement dec16daw3m

Storage.—THE FIRE-PROOF STONE WAREHOUSE, opposite Umatilla House is the only building not made of wood, at the Dalles, where goods are taken on STORAGE All other houses that take goods on storage are wooden buildings and in exposed parts of the town, liable to the risk of fire. The subscriber assures his patrons that his charges are but $1.50 per ton per month storage and although storage in wooden buildings is $1.00 per ton, yet the public cannot fail to perceive the advantages the subscriber possesses over other warehouses of this place

This medicine has been used in private practice for many years with great success Indeed, in no instance has it failed to effect a speedy cure in Ague especially one bottle having been found sufficient in most cases and in none are more than two bottles required

On the Path.

On the path toiling, I thought not of toil;
Troubles might meet us, I did not recoil;
Sunshine above us, but in our hearts more,
Rich in bright hopefulness, outwardly poor;
'Twas thus we started, thy hand clasping mine,
Thou my love owning, my faith built on thine.

"On the path," saidst thou, "together we'll keep,
Though it be thorny, though it be steep.
Alone one might falter, but we hand in hand,
Strength each from each, love can ever command."
Yet I—the weaker—have held to the track,
Singly have reached the goal, thou hast turned back.

On the path, sadly and lonely I sped,
Silently, tearlessly, buried my dead—
One by one buried them out of my sight,
Deep in the heart that, near thee, was so light.
Hope with its blossoms all withered and shed,
Love, Faith, and Fellowship—these were my dead!

On the path still, but my toil is nigh done;
I've but to enter the home I have won.
Home—what a word! but the name is too sweet
When the heart rests not, and the tired feet,
As o'er the threshold they wearily tread,
Raise by their echo the ghosts of the dead.

From the path stepping, clearly I see
Not what is present, but what was to be:
From the dark grave where I laid them to rest,
The Love and the Faith that were dearest and best,
Like phantoms arise which the tomb cannot keep,
And I lose them anew, having leisure to weep.

JAMES ALFRED PEARCE OF MARYLAND.—The announcement that this distinguished Senator in Congress died at his residence, Chestertown, Maryland, December 20th, was received with almost universal regret. He was born in Alexandria, Virginia, on the 14th of December, 1805. He graduated at Princeton College with the first honors in 1822. A member of the bar and deeply imbued with the philosophy of his profession in all its abstruse departments, his inclinations and tastes led him to the study and pursuit of agriculture, and while giving much of his time to great public questions, he rarely appeared in the legal forum, but soon became a leading member of one of the great parties of the country. He served in the Maryland Legislature in 1831, sat as a Representative in Congress from his district for six years, and was chosen United States Senator in 1843 from the State, which important post he held at the period of his death. For a number of years past he has been Chairman of the Joint Committee on the Library, and a regent of the Smithsonian Institution. He was also Professor of Law in Washington College, near his plantation at Chestertown.

Pearce was an educated and accomplished gentleman, a man of singular suavity of deportment, a true friend, a kind neighbour and a patriotic citizen. Attached to the old Whig party in its best days, he was afterwards counted among the supporters of the policy of the Administration in opposition to the Republicans, and although undoubtedly leaning to the Southern side of the present struggle, he was profoundly affected by the condition of the country, and did not hesitate at all times to use every endeavor to promote moderation and conciliation in the public councils. He seemed to shrink from partisanship, and it may be said that he has not left a personal enemy in the Senate. His favorite pastime was to investigate the beautiful science of botany, and to push forward the adornment of public grounds and squares of this great city. For more than a year past he antici-pated his death, and spoke of it with calm composure.—Washington Chronicle.

MILITARY GENIUS.—Political genius manifests itself in most cases in knowing how to wait for a favorable opportunity, but military inspiration sees at a glance where a blow can be struck, and strikes at once. Thus, whilst the greatest politicians have been distinguished for their patience, the greatest generals have signalized themselves by promptness in action. Each order of minds has its own inconveniences, and acts according to the laws of nature.—M. Thiers.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, PORTLAND, OREGON, January 6, 1863. }

By the President of the United States, through Brigadier General George Wright, commanding the Department of the Pacific, and Brigadier General Benjamin Alvord, commanding the District of Oregon, I have been requested to raise six additional companies, required to complete the 1st Regiment of Cavalry, Oregon Volunteers. They will be needed the coming Spring on the frontiers of this State and Washington Territory, and for an expedition against the Snake Indians, who have so long been mercilessly engaged in robbing emigrants and murdering our fellow-citizens. I cannot doubt that the citizens of Oregon, who have always promptly responded to any demand for their military services, will in like manner respond to this call; thereby showing their loyalty to the Government, and aiding in chastising marauding bands of Indians which infest our frontiers.

The enlisted men, when mounted, will be supplied with horses by the United States, it being understood that they will be mounted or not, as shall be deemed advisable by the Government.

Propositions to raise a whole company, which will furnish their own horses and horse equipments, may be entertained. The men are in such cases entitled to forty cents a day for the use and risk of their horses and horse equipments.

Each company will consist of one hundred enlisted men, and when mustered into the service of the United States to serve for three years, unless sooner discharged.

Recruiting offices will be immediately opened at Portland, Dalles City, and perhaps at other places,

By the Governor,
ADDISON C. GIBBS.

CYRUS A. REED, Adjutant General.

On the Path.

On the path toiling, I thought not of toil;
Troubles might meet us, I did not recoil;
Sunshine above us, but in our hearts more,
Rich in bright hopefulness, outwardly poor;
'Twas thus we started, thy hand clasping mine,
Thou my love owning, my faith built on thine.

"On the path," saidst thou, "together we'll keep,
Though it be thorny, though it be steep
Alone one might falter, but we hand in hand,
Strength each from each love can ever command,"
Yet I—the weaker—have held to the track,
Singly have reached the goal; thou hast turned back.

On the path, sadly and lonely I sped,
Silently, tearlessly, buried my dead—
One by one buried them out of my sight,
Deep in the heart that, near thee, was so light.
Hope with its blossoms all withered and shed,
Love, Faith, and Fellowship—these were my dead!

On the path still, but my toil is nigh done;
I've but to enter the home I have won,
Home—what a word! but the name is too sweet
When the heart rests not, and the tired feet,
As o'er the threshold they wearily tread,
Raise by their echo the ghosts of the dead.

From the path stepping, clearly I see
Not what is present, but what was to be:
From the dark grave where I laid them to rest,
The Love and the Faith that were dearest and best,
Like phantoms arise which the tomb cannot keep,
And I lose them anon, having leisure to weep.
—Chamber's Journal.

James Alfred Pearce of Maryland.—The announcement that this distinguished Senator in Congress died at his residence, Chestertown, Maryland, December 20th, was received with almost universal regret. He was born in Alexandria, Virginia, on the 14th of December, 1805. He graduated at Princeton College with the first honors in 1822. A member of the bar and deeply imbued with the philosophy of his profession in all its abstruse departments, his inclinations and tastes led him to the study and pursuit of agriculture, and while giving much of his time to great public questions, he rarely appeared in the legal forum, but soon became a leading member of one of the great parties of the country. He served in the Maryland Legislature in 1831, sat as a Representative in Congress from his district for six years, and was chosen United States Senator in 1843 from the State, which important post he held at the period of his death. For a number of years past he has been Chairman of the Joint Committee on the Library, and a regent of the Smithsonian Institution. He was also Professor of Law in Washington College, near his plantation at Chestertown.

Pearce was an educated and accomplished gentleman, a man of singular suavity of deportment, a true friend, a kind neighbour and a patriotic citizen. Attached to the old Whig party in its best days, he was afterwards counted among the supporters of the policy of the Administration in opposition to the Republicans, and although undoubtedly leaning to the Southern side of the present struggle, he was profoundly affected by the condition of the country, and did not hesitate at all times to use every endeavor to promote moderation and conciliation in the public councils. He seemed to shrink from partisanship, and it may be said that he has not left a personal enemy in the Senate. His favorite pastime was to investigate the beautiful science of botany, and to push forward the adornment of public grounds and squares of this great city. For more than a year past he anticipated his death, and spoke of it with calm composure.—Washington Chronicle.

Military Genius.—Political genius manifests itself in most cases in knowing how to wait for a favorable opportunity, but military inspiration sees at a glance where a blow can be struck, and strikes at once. Thus, whilst the greatest politicians have been distinguished for their patience, the greatest generals have signalized themselves by promptness in action. Each order of minds has its own inconveniences, and acts according to the laws of nature.—M. Thiers.

Proclamation by the Governor

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, PORTLAND, OREGON, January 6, 1863.

By the President of the United States, through Brigadier General George Wright, commanding the Department of the Pacific, and Brigadier General Benjamin Alvord, commanding the District of Oregon, I have been requested to raise six additional companies, required to complete the 1st Regiment of Cavalry, Oregon Volunteers. They will be needed the coming Spring on the frontiers of this State and Washington Territory, and for an expedition against the Snake Indians, who have so long been mercilessly engaged in robbing emigrants and murdering our fellow-citizens. I cannot doubt that the citizens of Oregon, who have always promptly responded to any demand for their military services, will in like manner respond to this call; thereby showing their loyalty to the Government, and aiding in chastising marauding bands of Indians which infest our frontiers.

The enlisted men, when mounted, will be supplied with horses by the United States, it being understood that they will be mounted or not, as shall be deemed advisable by the Government.

Propositions to raise a whole company, which will furnish their own horses and horse equipments, may be entertained. The men are in such cases entitled to forty cents a day for the use and risk of their horses and horse equipments.

Each company will consist of one hundred enlisted men, and when mustered into the service of the United States to serve for three years, unless sooner discharged.

Recruiting offices will be immediately opened at Portland, Dalles City, and perhaps at other places. By the Governor,

ADDISON C. GIBBS.

CYRUS A. REED, Adjutant General.
